

Miguel Angel Valdivieso, Econ.

Basic Information

Department

ICP- International Careers Program

Educational Background

- B.A., Northeastern Illinois University
- Master in Business Administration, Governors State University
- Master in Economics, De Paul University

Teaching Philosophy

A teacher should be a facilitator in the classroom and should guide students through the subject matter in order to assist them in their own discoveries. Students should be motivated to learn how to learn and should feel comfortable to bring new insights into a subject matter or raise/answer questions during a classroom discussion. As a facilitator, a teacher should encourage students to carry on research and to apply any research technique available to them both in and out of the classroom.

Teaching Specialties

- Economics
- Human Resource Management
- Strategic Management
- International Business/Economics

Professional Profile

His main areas of interest are Human Resource Development, Strategic Planning and Small Business Development. He has worked in these fields at the senior management level, as well as, as a consultant.

Professor Valdivieso has participated and published several studies on economic and educational issues, both in the United States and Ecuador. Most of his professional work has been within the international environment.

Since 1978 has been teaching, at the college level, economics and business courses at Elmhurst College, University of South Carolina, Brookdale Community College and at Universidad Espíritu Santo (ICP).

He has been associated with Fundación Ecuador since 1994 and at the present time is the foundation's General Coordinator. Professor Valdivieso was nominated "Who is who among students in American Universities", "Outstanding Young Men of America" and "Outstanding Citizen of Guayaquil.

Contact Information

ma_valdivieso@hotmail.com

UEES Samborondon Campus
Km 2 ½ Puntilla-Samborondón
Cdla Tornero II (Greater Guayaquil)
Guayas, Ecuador